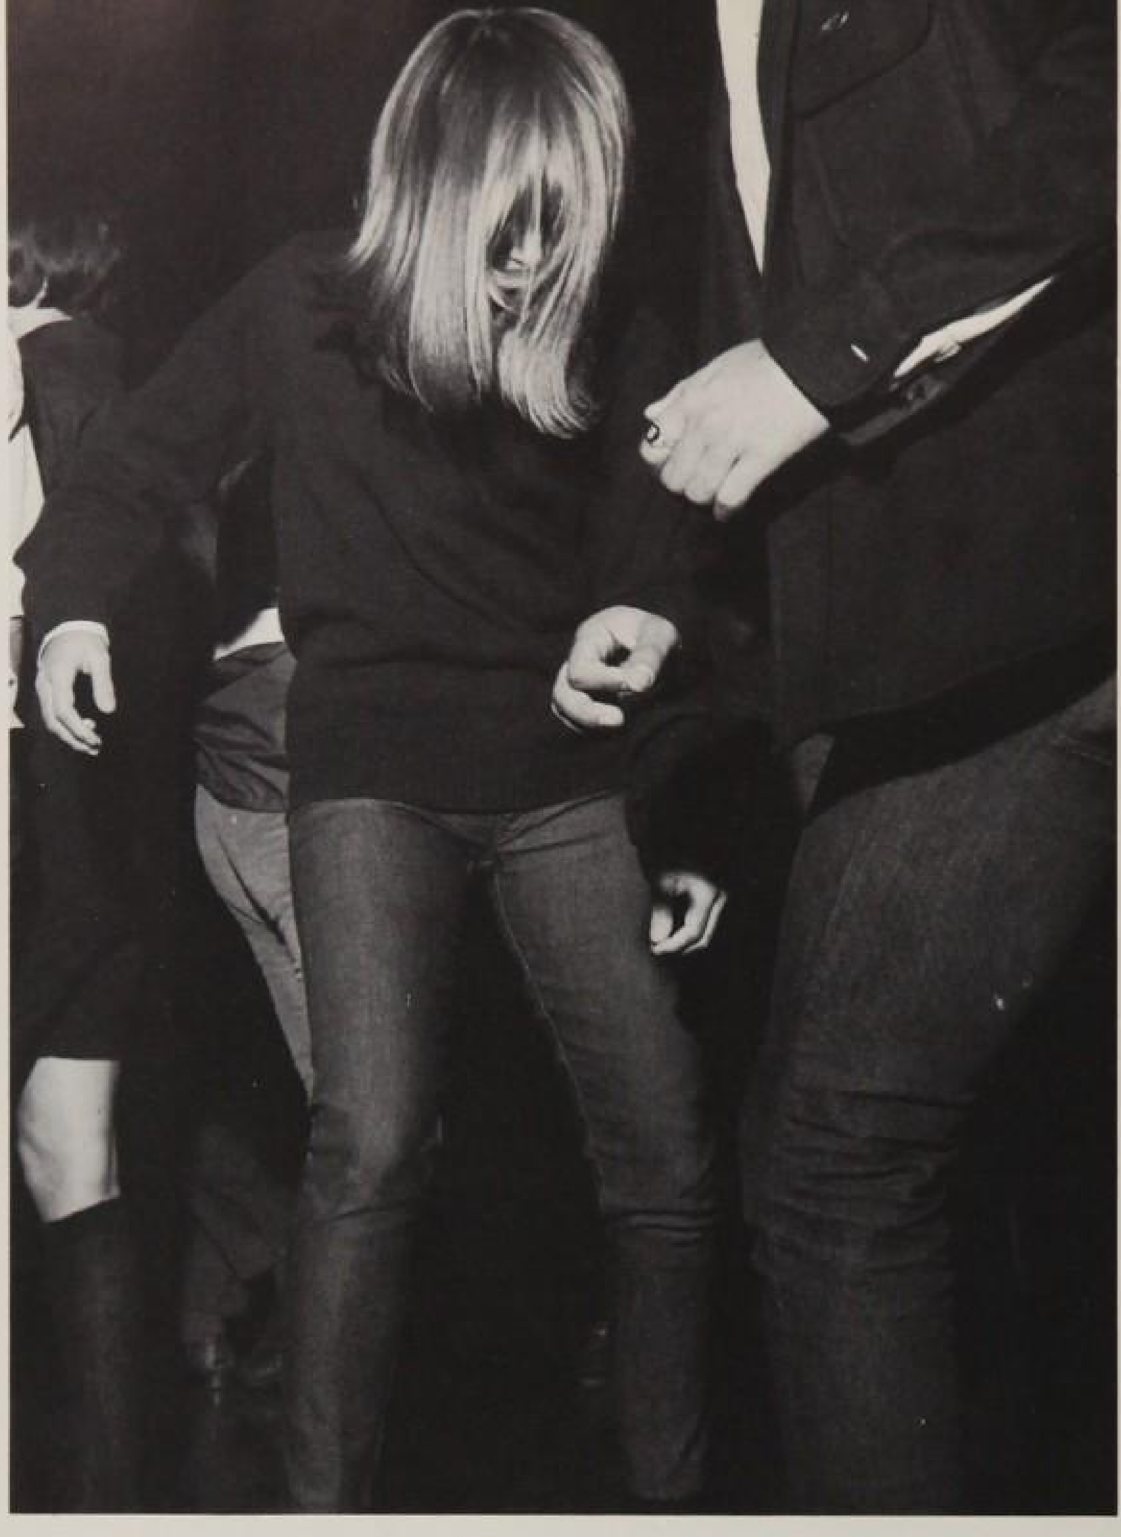
The Faces of Involvement

Reserved for S

Tense faces, happy faces, distressed faces—these were the faces of involvement! They were the faces of the students at Prospect High School who found fulfillment through participation in a wide range of activities from the All-Knight Party to graduation.



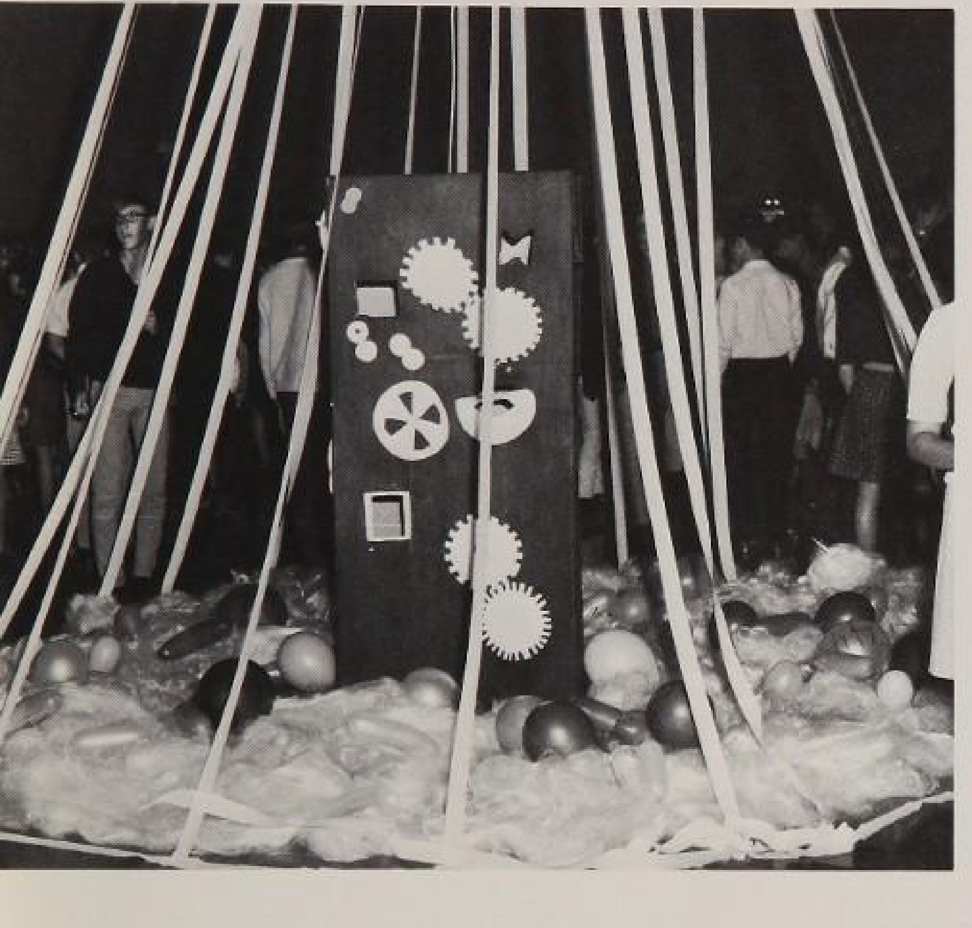
OVERSIZED PEA JACKETS and undersized jeans complete the look of the swinging Knights.

Knights opened year with night of fun and games

The All-Knight Party started the '66-'67 social season spinning, offering something for everyone in the way of entertainment. Those attending the Council-sponsored mixer on September 9 participated in dancing, took part in a wide variety of games, or watched the movie, "Bye Bye Birdie." Socializing Knights also enjoyed pausing to observe the action on closed-circuit television.

DETERMINED KNIGHTS show just how appropriate the name "Twister" is for this game.

GEARS, WHEELS, and other similar decorations remind dancers that automation was responsible for determining their partners.



A date set up by a computer is a calculated risk. However, a great number of curious Knights were willing to take it and ventured to "Operation Match," the kick-off dance held by the Junior Class on September 17. The computer's arrangements proved successful, for an enthusiastic crowd danced from 8 to 11 p.m. to the music of the "Young Gentlemen."

Knightimes spotlights focused on Queen Charlotte

The entire student body tensely awaited the announcement of their queen during the Knightimes coronation assembly on October 14. Finally, the announcement was made; Charlotte Kreusch was queen! As her escort, Tom Lundstedt, presented her with her crown and roses, Queen Charlotte began her reign over Prospect's traditional homecoming activities.

PRESERVING TRADITION, the Mellotones sing their original version of "The Sweetheart Tree" as a salute to the Knightimes Queen.

Knightimes Dance climaxed homecoming festivities

Honoring the Code of Chivalry as in days of yore, loyal Knights and their ladies attended the Knightimes Dance, sponsored by the Varsity Club on October 15. Queen Charlotte, her court, and her subjects danced to the music of Ross Renick and his orchestra as Homecoming '66 drew to an end—the Spirit of Knighthood renewed, a cherished memory gained.

Other projects followed Knightimes

With Knightimes activities completed, Student Council turned to preparations for the up-coming variety show in late October. Council members also completed orders for the long-awaited student lounge due in December and began to give thought to the Council-sponsored All-Knight Party in the spring.

BOB TOBIN and Bonnie Van Riet fulfill the obligation of Council's service committee to keep Prospect's trophies sparkling.

Knights displayed talents as good triumphed over evil

A wild cross-country bicycle race formed the plot of Prospect's unforgettable variety show, "Who's Afraid of Phoebe Phiend or Whatever Happened to Ebeneezer Peabody?" Directed by Mr. Heller, the Student Council project was a clever combination of student writing, producing, and performing talents presented to capacity crowds on October 28 and 29.

As the action of the school year progressed, members of the Prospector and Crest staffs stood by to record it. The newspaper kept the student body informed about school activities, while the yearbook developed as a permanent record of the year's events. Thus, as June approached, for Prospect's publications students the year passed by in a series of deadlines.

Class of '69 presented a gala Christmas Ball

December 17 was a red-letter day on Prospect's holiday calendar, for that was the date of the traditional Christmas Ball. Decorations by the Sophomore Class, the music of Don Melka's Orchestra, and an abundance of Christmas cheer gave the occasion a festive air. As Christmas Ball Queen Barbara Kastning's reign came to an end, couples agreed that the wish, "And to All a Good Night," had come true.

Holiday spirit was boosted by decorations and song

It began to look a lot like Christmastime as a flurry of yuletide activities began at Prospect. As part of Council's "Deck the Halls" project, decorations depicting the Twelve Days of Christmas added a festive air to the Up's and Down's of the stairways. Christmas spirit grew, and during the final days before vacation, many restless eyes strayed from classrooms to the courtyard for a look at Charlie Brown's Christmas tree.

Prospect's Orchesis members and Rhythmettes entertained football and basketball half-time audiences with presentations of accuracy and grace. The precision drills of the Rhythmettes consistently drew the enthusiastic applause of the crowds.

Competition in sports continued seventh hour

Once or twice a week girls and boys interested in athletics participated in extracurricular sports. Under the supervision of Miss Pifer and Mrs. Sunstrum, G.R.A. members took part in a program which included volleyball and gymnastics. Meanwhile, directed by Mr. Gelhaar, boys competed in intramural sports such as tennis, basketball, and bowling.

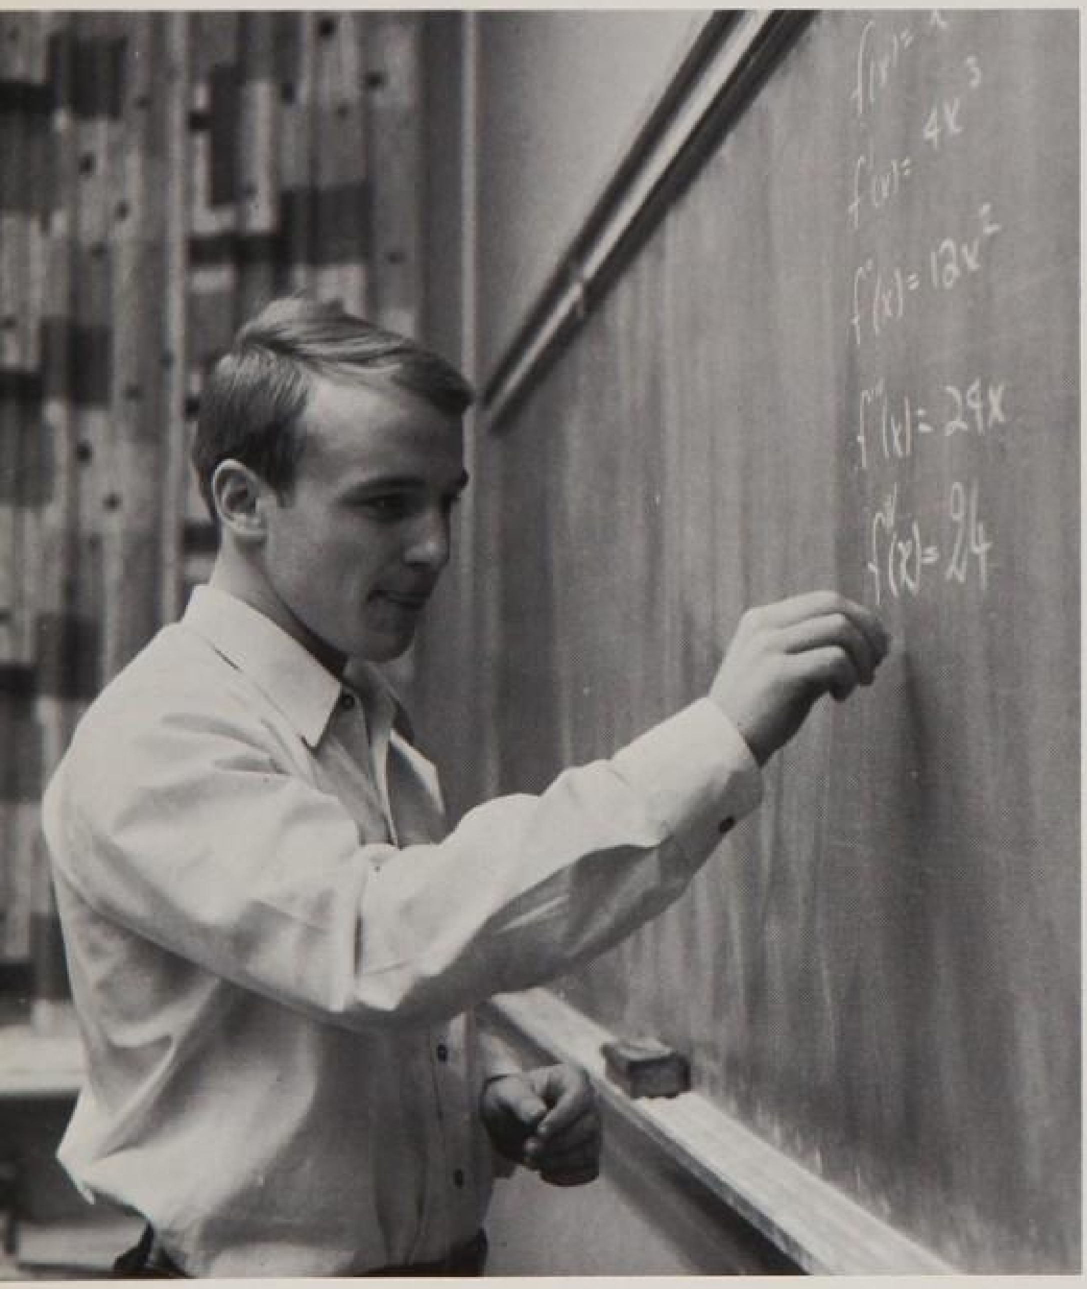
Three "transfer students" specialized in diplomacy

Three popular members of Prospect's student body were its special ambassadors from Germany and Latin America. From Germany, Peru, and Ecuador came Klaus Meyer, Ana Marie Rivas, and Maria Eugenia Sanchez to take part in Prospect activities. Through American Field Service and International Fellowship, a sharing of ideas and experiences brought Gottingen, Lima, and Guayaquil much closer for all the Knights.



MATHEMATICS proves itself to be a universal language for Klaus Meyer, the A.F.S. student from Germany who found communication easy with his fluent English and a ready smile.

"Walk together, talk together . . . ," the adopted creed of all foreign exchange students, was fulfilled January 20, when the Foreign Exchange Club sponsored its second annual International Day. During their stay these students made many friends as they joined the Knights in a full schedule of Prospect's activities.

Breaking from the traditional interpretation, Prospect's National Thespian Society presented the Shakespearian tragedy in a modern Mexican setting. The production, directed by Mrs. Lewkowicz, was selected for district play competition.

WITH SCHOOL OVER for the day, a group of students relaxes in the new lounge.

The sounds of banging and hammering became routine as Prospect took on a new look for '67. A roomy foyer and classroom were constructed as additions to the fieldhouse. The academic building gained a biology lab and a fully-equipped studio for radio and TV. Soon after Christmas the new student lounge was installed in the cafeteria foyer. Besides these new facilities, a new face contributed to the new look as Prospect received its first police counselor, Officer Yost.

FOR SENIORS Linda Booth and Dave Beckstrom, the prom is something special; it is one of the last activities they will attend as Prospect students.

To present a prom which would be remembered always—this was the goal of the Junior Class. With this in mind "A Night to Cherish" was presented at Ravinia Green Country Club on May 19, 1967. Decorations, music, and refreshments lent an enchanted atmosphere to the final dance of the year. It was, especially for the seniors, truly a night to remember.

As the year drew to a close, outstanding seniors received recognition at the Senior Awards Assembly. Then, on graduation night, June 14, the Class of 1967 bid farewell to Prospect High School.

Led by department head Mr. Kemman, science teachers encouraged students to acquire a strong background in both biological and physical science.

Knowledge of languages and social sciences: the key to an understanding of the world

For administrative purposes the Social Science and Language Departments operated as one this year under the direction of Mr. Grabitz. Two new courses, American Problems and Latin American History, were added to the social science curriculum, enlarging an already wide variety of interesting and informative courses. Language classes again operated efficiently, making use of valuable laboratory facilities.

VINCE CURRY and Leroy Rateike lead the Knights to victory in varsity track competition.

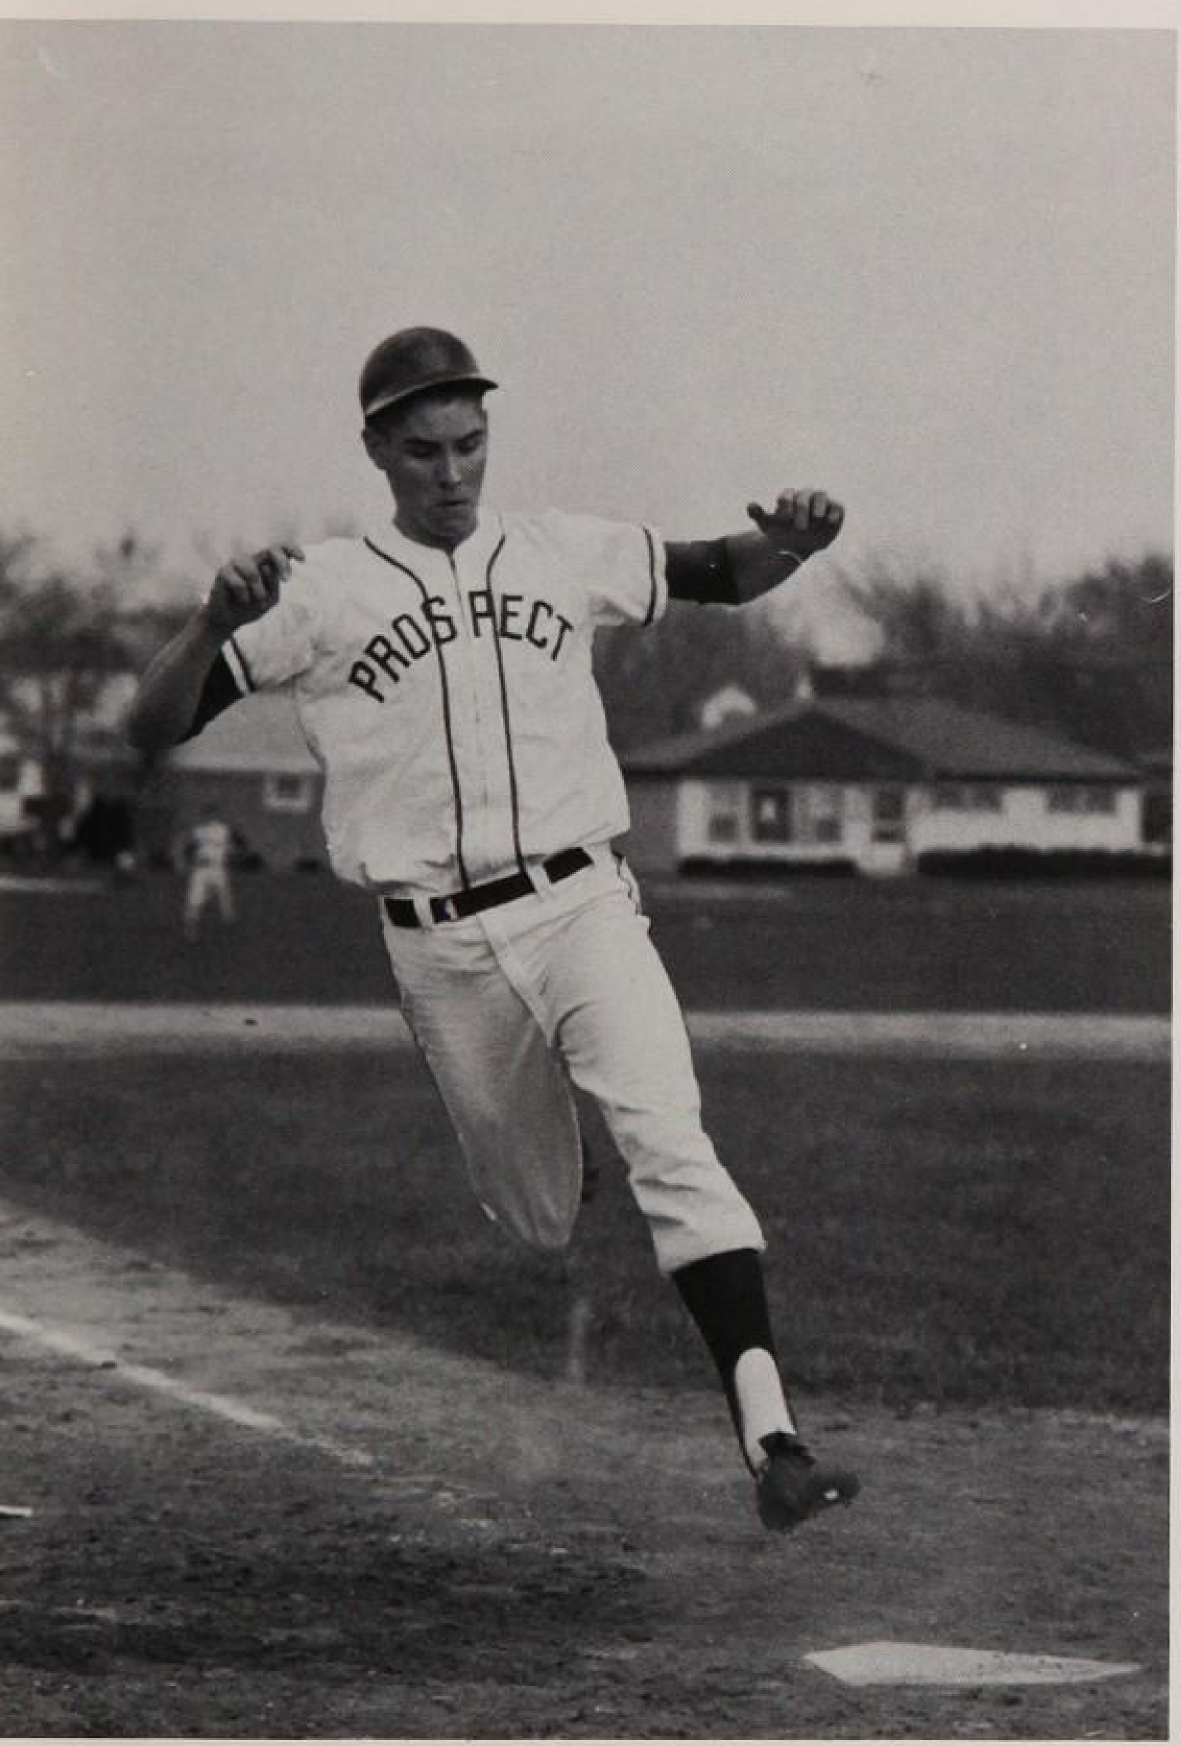
SLIDING towards home, Vince Franzone attempts to elude the tag.

One of the first things to appear outdoors in the spring was the varsity baseball squad, which developed its skills in an attempt towards duplicating the success of last year's championship team. The guidance of Mr. Slayton and the talents of eleven lettermen, including all-conference Maury Gallagher, Dave Kingman, and Tom Lundstedt, made the Knight combination a formidable one. The freshman teams trained under Mr. Porter and Mr. Szymanski, while the sophs, under the guidance of Mr. Hipple, strove to take the conference title for a third consecutive year.

JOHN PHILLIPS steps into the on-deck circle for a few warm up swings.

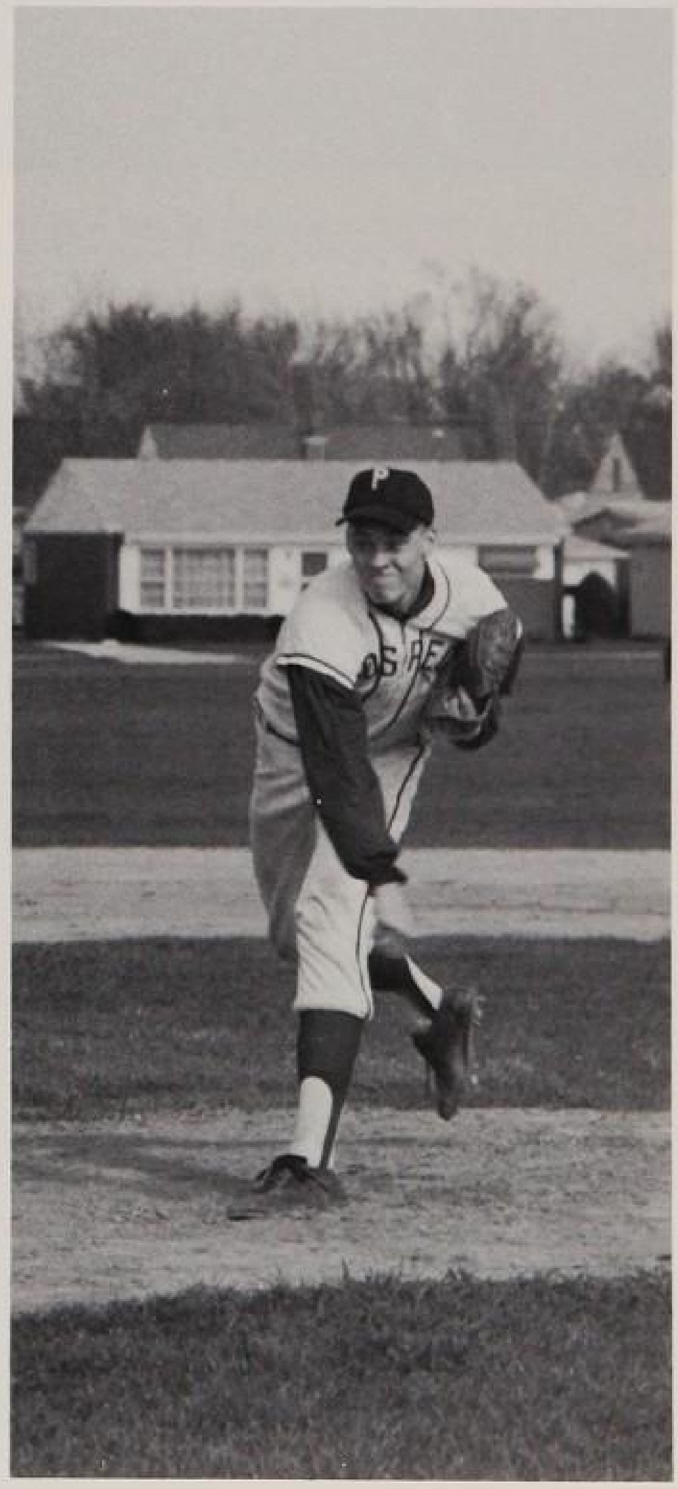
RAPPING out another hit for the Knights, Clyde Whitcomb completes the necessary follow through.

Eleven returning lettermen sparked the Knights to victory



INCHES AWAY from cinching another run for Prospect, Dave Kingman aims for the plate.

TOM LUNDSTEDT follows through on a successful pitch.

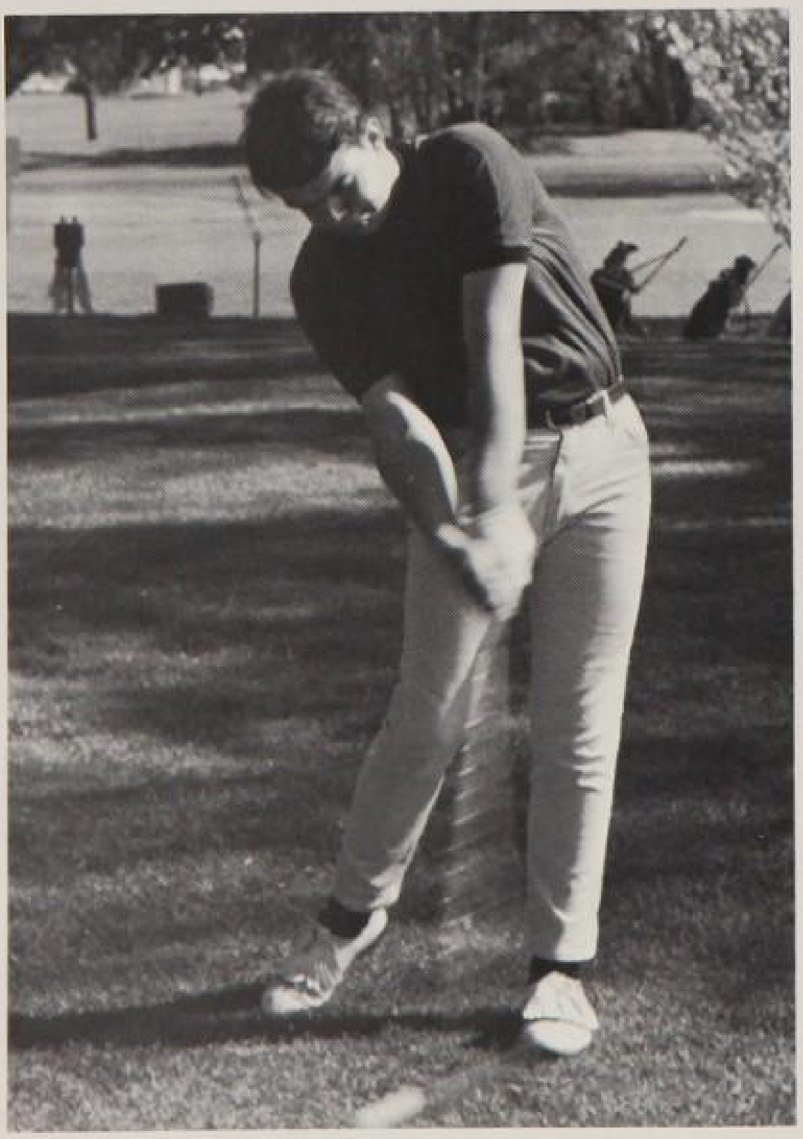


FINDING HIS BALL in a precarious position, Scott Crawford prepares to re-enter the fairway.

A RELAXED Bruce Timko lines up an important putt at the Mt. Prospect Country Club.

Linksmen used long drives and short irons to beat par

Prospect's golf team faced a challenging season led by five returning lettermen: Bill Volk, Harry Wallace, Joe Rosanova, who last year placed in the conference top ten, and Fred Fassnacht and Bob Phelan, who each placed in that category at the district level. The chances of Coach Nisen's linksmen were boosted by promising sophs Scott Crawford, Steve Orrell, and Bruce Timko.

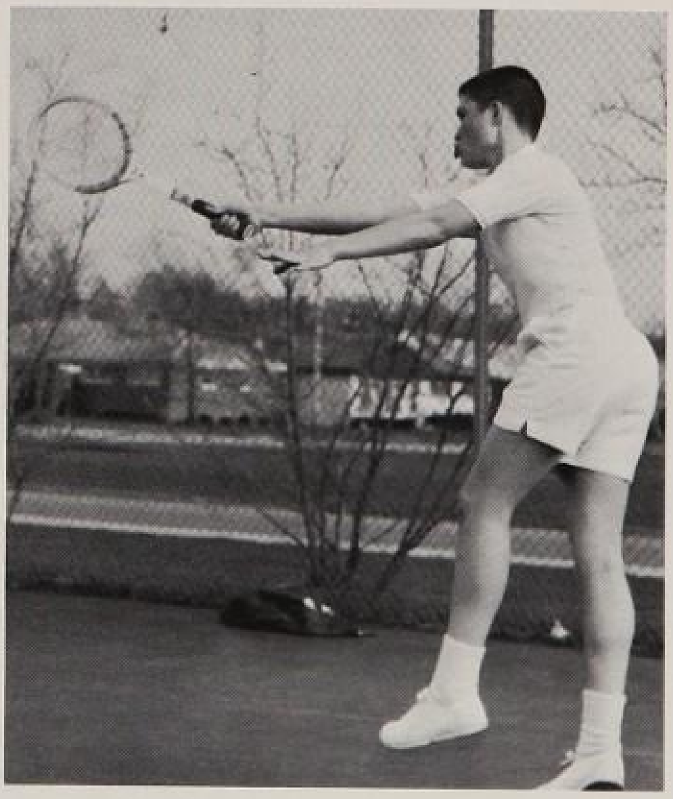


LEANING into the ball, Joe Rosanova blasts a long drive during varsity competition.

Mr. Gelhaar and Mr. Wright coached the Knight netmen to victory this year. With three returning lettermen, Jeff Long, Glen Morton, and Neil Wells, the team strove to better last year's record of 11—1. Two talented sophomores, Chuck Hughson and Dave Johnson, shared the spotlight with their upperclassmen teammates.

SENIOR STANDOUT Jeff Long displays the proper form gained through many hours of practice.

Raqueteers seldom jumped the net



QUICK REACTIONS and a strong swing enable Chuck Hughson to return difficult volleys.

EMPLOYING the necessary follow-through, sophomore Dave Johnson returns an important volley.

The Extracurricular Faces

One very special aspect of Prospect's school year was brought about by the many students who participated in extra-curricular activities. In sports, music, clubs, and service and honorary organizations, these students continuously promoted the Code of the Knights by upholding the Banner of Knowledge, the Shield of Sportsmanship, and the Sword of Service.

From tryouts to tournaments the varsity, junior-varsity, and freshman cheerleaders worked to promote Prospect loyalty. Working with the Pep and Varsity Clubs, the girls kept busy planning pep assemblies and devising cheers. Under the supervision of Miss Dallia, the varsity squad purchased new uniforms for the basketball season.

JUNIOR-VARSITY CHEERLEADERS

VARSITY CLUB

"To promote the ideals of sportsmanship and spirit" was the goal for the Varsity Club. This honorary athletic organization sponsored the Holiday Wrestling Tournament and 1966 Knightimes. With the help of Mr. Kirstein and Mr. Williams, the boys planned an April concert, presenting The Vogues and The Mob as a money-making project. Through such efforts the lettermen strove to uphold the Knights' high ideals of sportsmanship and decency.

NATIONAL FORENSICS LEAGUE

The National Forensics League functioned as an honor society for students who excelled in the fields of debate and individual speech events. One of its main projects was the production and sale of school calendars, which supported the local chapter and speech activities such as Student Congress, which was held at Prospect this year. These activities were organized by Miss McGuigan, Mr. McNabb, and the four N.F.L. officers.

A spring banquet was held to initiate new members, present awards, and celebrate a season of more than one full house.

ART CLUB

Service and promotion were on the agenda for the Art Club. Monthly meetings were supplemented by outside work on posters and programs for school activities. Members helped the sponsor, Mr. Knudson, by framing select artwork for a permanent collection. Interest in art was promoted by projects, including a field trip financed by work on concessions. A fair exchange resulted as effort yielded a greater understanding of and interest in the arts.

After a good amount of practice, the freshmen debaters represented Prospect at Tournaments throughout the Chicagoland area.

INDIVIDUAL SPEECH EVENTS

During a period which extended from November to May, a number of students participated in Individual Speech Events. This was a series of about twenty contests in ten different fields of public-speaking. MONITORS CLUB

During fourth hour, Prospect's corridors remained free of loiterers due to the efforts of the members of the newly organized Monitors Club. OFFICE GUIDES

While learning basic office responsibilities, the office guides relieved the counseling staff of many time-consuming tasks. Several times during the year, the club reserved a range at Hunter's Haven in Itasca. Bus trips to the range provided members with an opportunity to improve their skill in various shooting techniques.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE CLUB

A reciprocal program insured a better understanding of other countries, as both foreign students and American returnees related their experiences at the meetings of the Foreign Exchange Club. Under the direction of Mr. Gelhaar, members sponsored International Day, during which exchange students at nearby schools were guests at Prospect. Lasting friendships resulted from the visits of students from several foreign countries circling the globe.

The only requirement for attendance was a familiarization with the topic under consideration.

They were also aided by the ideas and advice of the sponsors, Miss Codey, Miss Hammar, and Mrs. Himley, whose experience was invaluable.

RADIO CLUB

Prospect's Radio Club was responsible for the strange tapping noises which echoed throughout the school on many weekday afternoons. The industrious members of this club were attempting to conquer the Morse Code. Their objective was to send out five words a minute and thus obtain a Novice Amateur Radio License from the Federal Communications Commission. Under the supervision of Mr. Baker, the club met to achieve this goal.

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION CLUB

Regular classroom work was supplemented by actual business experience as members partook in the activities of the Distributive Education Club. With the guidance of Mr. Seibel, students attended a half-day of classes and spent the afternoons applying their knowledge to business situations in local stores. Being able to relate schoolwork to everyday working problems prepared students for future careers in the many fields of the business world.

DIVERSIFIED OCCUPATIONS CLUB

The opportunity to pursue vocational interests was most important in the eyes of the participants of the Diversified Occupations Club, which was directed by Mr. DiPietro. After completing required classroom courses, each student received a knowledge of technical information for his own particular trade. Their elective hours provided them time for actual job experience and application of knowledge in fields of skilled trade and labor.

BUSINESS EDUCATION CLUB

The promotion of participation, interest, and service provided a sound basis for the plans of the Business Education Club. Under the direction of Mrs. Rhoback, Miss Bitta, and Miss Graf, members of the club participated in field trips and enjoyed the presentations of guest speakers. The club awarded pins for proficiency in typing, filing, and shorthand. A Christmas party and a spring tea rounded out the year's activities for the twenty-one member club.

OFFICE OCCUPATIONS CLUB

As a fruitful "laboratory of human relations," the Office Occupations Club functioned in cooperation with the Business Education Department. Under the direction of Mrs. Bright, seniors had the opportunity to learn about business through part-time employment. Actual office work, as well as classroom training, was offered to improve basic business skills and personal attitudes in order to promote a high degree of success in future employment.

SKI CLUB

The lack of snow during the greater part of the school year limited the activities of the Ski Club. However, on several occasions during the winter months, the club had the opportunity to plan and execute one-day outings at Wilmot and other skiing areas. Then, for a nominal cost, the club members and their sponsor, Mr. Clark, were transported to the slopes for a day of fun and excitement despite low temperatures and frequent spills.

BIOLOGY CLUB

One of Prospect's most active groups, the Biology Club, maintained its large membership by providing an eventful year. Besides promoting more interest in the biological sciences, the club worked on concessions and constructed a Homecoming float. President Rodney Skrzynski worked with sponsor Mr. Clark to arrange for such activities as a November hay ride, an April trip to Springfield, and a June outing at the Indiana Dunes.

COIN CLUB

Mr. Uth led the search for rare coins during the meetings of the newly formed Coin Club. Members were on the lookout for valuable foreign coins, Indian Heads, and British Colony Coins. They shared their knowledge of coins through discussion and swapped duplicates to improve their collections. In addition to these activities, the Coin Club also prepared an interesting display for the foyer.

CHESS CLUB

Under the direction of Mr. Goldstein, members of the Chess Club met to practice and to improve their game. Roundrobin tournaments challenged the skills and playing techniques of the members. Advanced players participated in matches with other schools in the district. Thus, the club offered an opportunity to learn new skills and to acquire a greater understanding and appreciation of the game.

AUDIO-VISUAL CLUB

The maintenance of films, televisions, and the P.A. system was one of the responsibilities of the Audio-Visual Club. Under the leadership of officers Chuck Traver, Jim Tate, Fred Reimann, and Jane Spooner, the members also made recordings for various departments and cared for the lighting of plays and dances. Mr. Dowling guided the group as they spent their study halls and after school hours organizing and repairing audio-visual equipment.

RUSSIAN CLUB

Prospect's Russian Club concentrated on providing educational and enjoyable activities for its enthusiastic members. Under the supervision of sponsor, Mr. Swick, the Russian Club made a taped reading of a play and sent it to other high schools across the United States, produced a filmstrip of the fairy tale, Ashik Kerib, and narrated it in the Russian language, visited a well-known Russian restaurant, and threw a gala Christmas party.

SPANISH CLUB

A strong interest in Latin American culture was evident in members of the Spanish Club. These students devoted a majority of their meetings to viewing slides of Spanish-speaking countries and hearing about Jan McNeil's and Polly Brother's visits to South America over the summer. These programs were directed by president, Bonnie Van Riet; vice-president, Karen Ages; and secretary, Diane Skafte, while all activities were supervised by Mr. Moore.

FRENCH CLUB

During regular meetings members of the French Club viewed slides taken by Miss Fruin during her summer vacation in France and those of students who visited that country through various study programs. With the help of Miss Fruin and co-sponsor, Mr. Rice, president Ginny Anderson arranged a field trip during which club members attended a French movie. Members also corresponded with French pen-pals whom they contacted through the club.

LATIN CLUB

Who were those strange-looking characters who were wearing togas and riding in chariots? They were the members of the Latin Club, sponsored by Mr. Zamzow, who kept interest in Roman culture thriving. Latin Club respresented Prospect in academic events and discus-throwing on Latin Interest Day at Elk Grove High School in April, participated in the state and district Latin contests, and threw their traditionally lively Christmas party.

GERMAN CLUB

Highlighting the agenda of the German Club was their annual Christmas party at which German dishes were served. Throughout the year slides were shown by exchange student, Klaus Meyer, and students who had visited Germany during the summer. Customs and traditions were discussed and compared to American ways. With the help of Miss Hudson, members also planned a German "night on the town" which included dinner and a German movie.

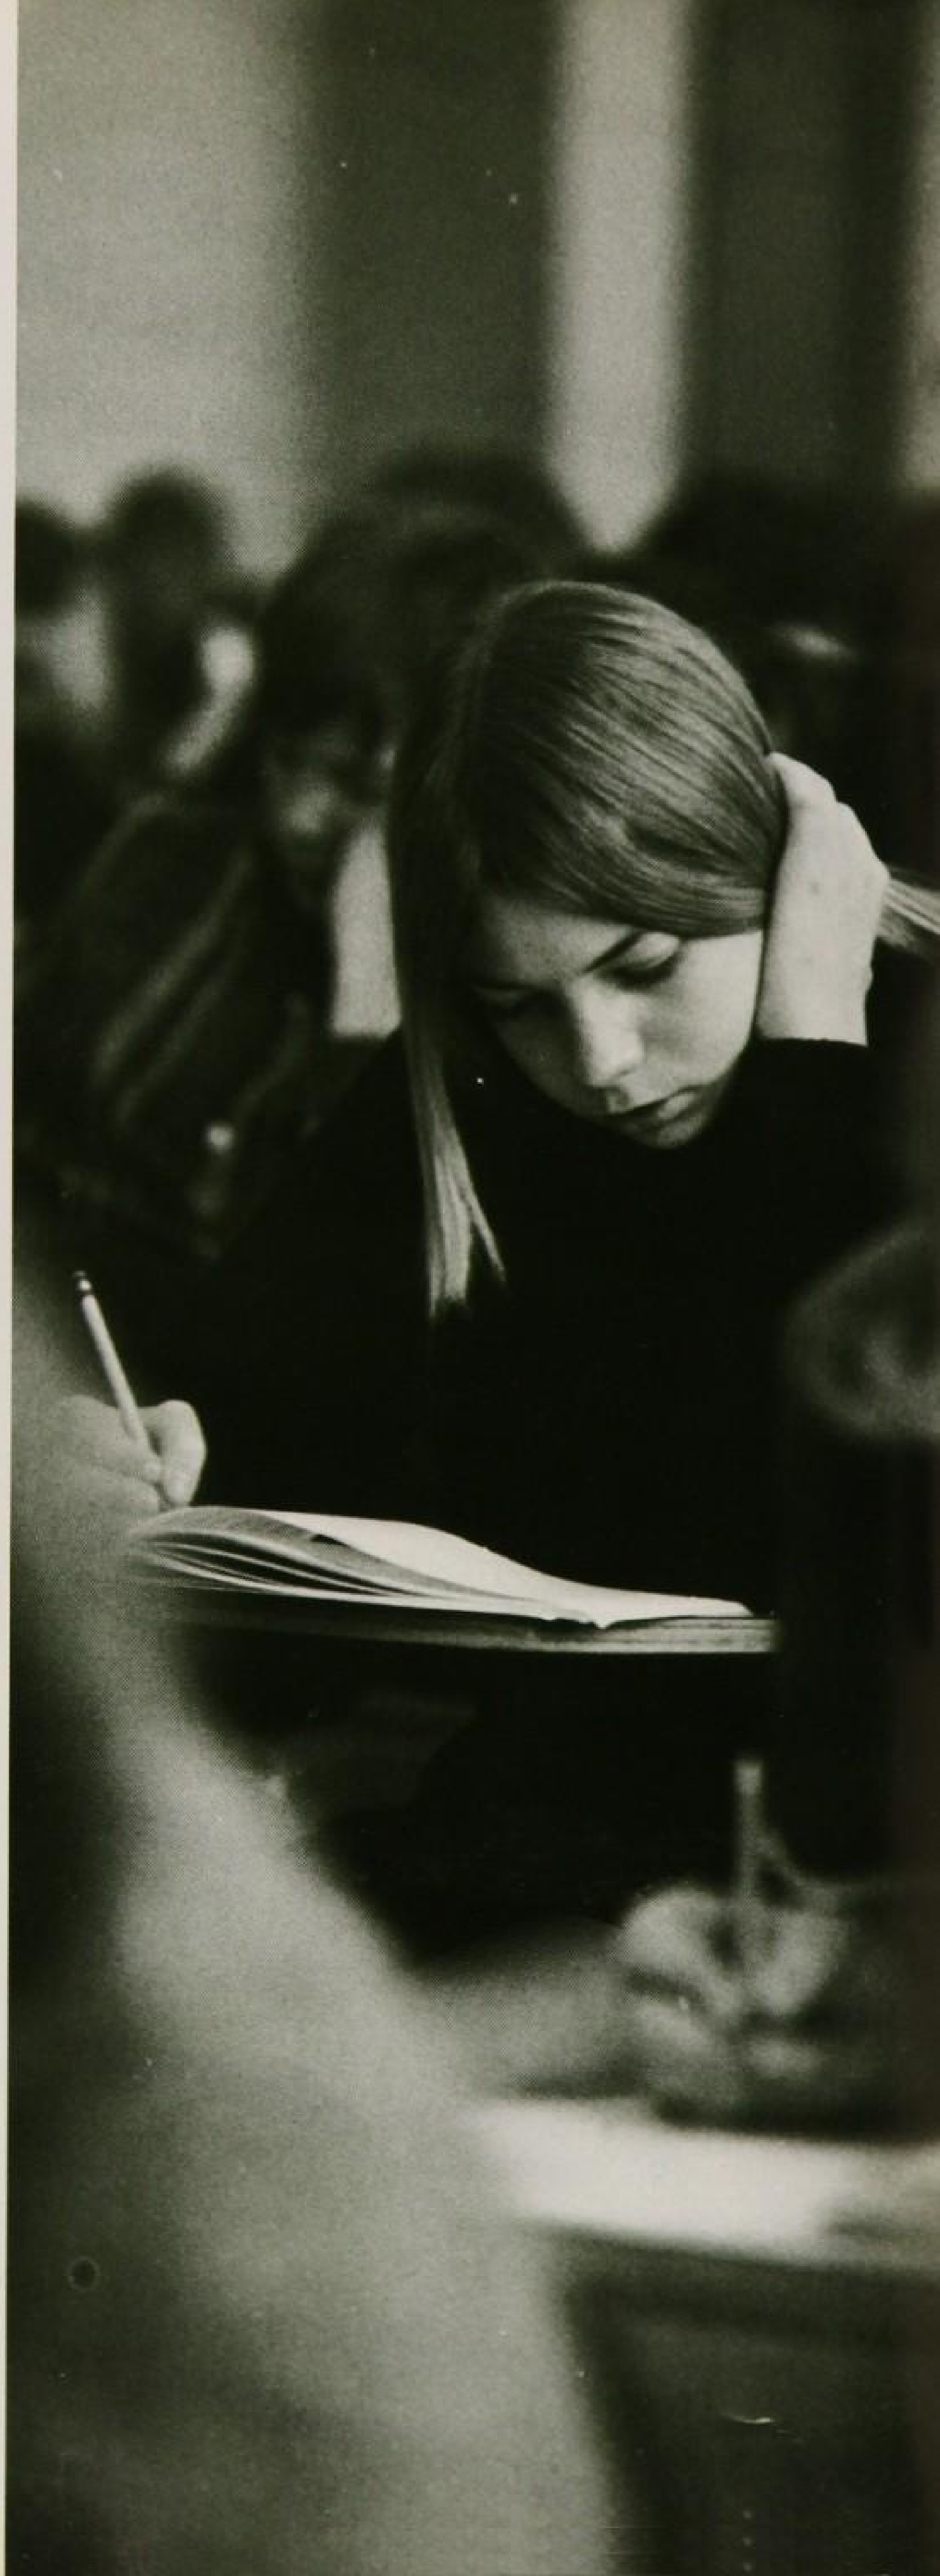
The Individual Faces



Just as the whole is always the sum of its parts, the overall face of Prospect High School was made up of many individuals: administrators, teachers, personnel, and the Knights themselves. These individuals joined together to plan and execute the series of events which made 1967 come alive—individualized and unforgettable!

Mr. Roderick C. McLennan
Assistant Superintendent

Administrators devised programs and policies

The seven-member District Board of Education, together with newly appointed superintendent Dr. Gilbert, maintained the efficient operation of the school system. The Board's duties included the expenditure of funds and establishment of school policies. Dr. Gilbert presented recommendations to the Board and with assistant superintendent, Mr. McLennan, endorsed a well-balanced school system.

Faculty laid foundations of knowledge

In addition to working during and after school to help their students find a better understanding of their subjects and the world, Prospect's faculty members strove for additional knowledge in their fields of specialization. Besides advising and sponsoring extra-curricular activities, many teachers put in hours on advanced degrees. Miss Robinson and Miss Shelton, members of the Language Department, taught morning classes at Prospect and then travelled to Northwestern University for work on their Master's Degrees. Counselors attended conferences and made college visitations which aided college-bound Knights. Mr. Feiereisel travelled to New York in October to attend a meeting of the College Entrance Examination Board. Mr. Lindemann visited colleges throughout the country, acquiring the information necessary for his advisory role. Thus, in many ways busy faculty members constituted an integral part of the school.

Secretaries exemplified efficient service

Nineteen hard-working office clerks kept the administrative, attendance, and counseling offices running smoothly. Some of these women aided the administrators by serving as secretaries and receptionists. Keeping attendance and registration records was the responsibility of some secretaries, while others clerked in the library, worked in the mailroom, and programmed the computer.

Maintaining the Knights

Prospect's twenty-four hour maintenance service insured the efficient operation of all school facilities. Eighteen custodians worked on three shifts that involved tasks ranging from the upkeep of school grounds to problems of classroom comfort and cleanliness. Likewise, a competent cafeteria staff prepared nutritious meals for hundreds of students.

Ambitious frosh vied for school honors and recognition

Confusing schedules and a maze of unfamiliar halls greeted over 600 incoming freshmen. Getting lost and being late to class became a thing of the past, however, as the Class of 1970 adjusted to its new surroundings. Freshmen participated in various activities at Prospect with increasing enthusiasm and spirit. With the help of sponsor, Mrs. Wehenmeyer, the Class of 1970 successfully planned and presented the annual spring turnabout.

The 1966-67 school year has been many different things for the Knights of Prospect. In the preceding pages we have tried to represent these varied faces of Prospect High School as completely and as accurately as possible. Many thanks to a patient advisor and to extremely hard-working editors and staff-members for the many hours of work and worry which have resulted in the 1967 Crest.
